

GLASGOWS

(AV / Streaming Technician)

Leading north west based events, film and digital agency with over 34 years' experience is looking to expand its technical production team due to our continued success in the virtual events and live streaming arena's. We are specifically looking for highly motivated and talented AV technicians to join our close-knit team of technical professionals. The position carries an excellent package with a salary range of £22,000 to 30,000 plus benefits, depending on experience, and is based at our head office in Leyland, Lancashire.

As an integral part of the production team you will fulfil a wide range of key tasks to support the technical delivery of live, hybrid and virtual events. Key requirements would include:-

- Strong technical skills and experience in live or virtual event AV production and streaming technology. Ideally with some experience using Livestream Studio, Vmix, or OBS.
- Excellent IT and networking knowledge with particular focus on optimisation for NDI video in broadcast and live streaming environments.
- Experience of multiple video conferencing platforms (Zoom, Teams, Webex etc) in a broadcast or streaming environment.
- Knowledge and experience of video standard methodologies (bitrate, frame size, frame rate, etc.).
- Experience in the setup and operation of online video delivery protocols (RTMP, WebRTC, UDP/TCP).
- Experience of camera setup and operation and video editing (Resolve, Final Cut X) would be an advantage.
- Strong analytical and problem solving skills - willing to roll up your sleeves and do what needs to be done. Ensuring every component of an event has a backup option should an issue arise.
- Ability to learn quickly and operate autonomously in a fast-paced, and dynamic environment.
- Work closely with the project team to provide audio-visual support for both virtual and hybrid events.
